Four-year program commitment: Incoming first-time freshmen

Curriculum

In addition to their chosen major at ASU, students will complete coursework to earn a certificate in Cross-Sector Leadership.

Course topics include

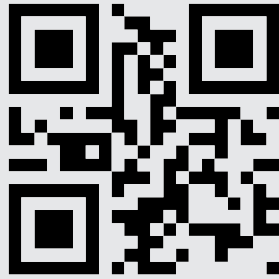

- Cross-Sector Leadership
- Human-Centered Design
- Leadership and Change
- Cross-Sector Collaboration
- Social Entrepreneurship

In the final course, the NGSC Leadership Capstone, students are asked to synthesize their learning in a final cross-sector project proposal.

Cross-Sector Internships

Students will complete three internships of their choice, one in each sector:

- Nonprofit Sector
- Private Sector
- Public / Government Sector

Service & Leadership

Students will participate in events and experiences each semester to enrich their leadership journey.

- Community engagement
- Service activities
- Civilian-military experiences
- Student leadership opportunities within the NGSC
- Leadership conferences
- NGSC community building activities
- Personal and professional development
- Retreats

Mission Team Engagement

All students are grouped into small teams by similar interest in a social issue. These mission teams engage in student-led exploration, research, and action with community partners, university partners, and the public.

Mission team areas include:

- | | |
|----------------------|-----------------------|
| Education | Water scarcity |
| Access to healthcare | Youth development |
| Immigration | National security |
| Equality & justice | Animal cruelty |
| Renewable energy | Human trafficking |
| Homelessness | Domestic violence |
| Human rights | Civic engagement |
| Sustainability | Community development |

Transfer Students

In addition to the four-year program for first time freshmen, NGSC also accepts a small cohort of transfer students from Arizona community colleges to complete a 2-year adaptation of the program. Transfer students receive base tuition coverage for up 4 semesters

Next
Generation
Service
Corps

All members of the ASU Next Generation Service Corps join a national network of other public service driven students through NextGen Service, an initiative of the Volcker Alliance.
